The Mountain Transition

Park City is in its element right now. The shoulder season brings a refreshing unpredictability; a light dusting of snow one morning, runners and cyclists out in 70° sunshine by afternoon. It's one of those rare windows when the mountains feel entirely yours.

These next six weeks are the perfect time to visit. Park City's celebrated restaurants and boutique shops are at their most relaxed and unhurried, no summer crowds, no need for reservations weeks in advance. Come at your own pace and experience the authentic charm of mountain town life before the season shifts.

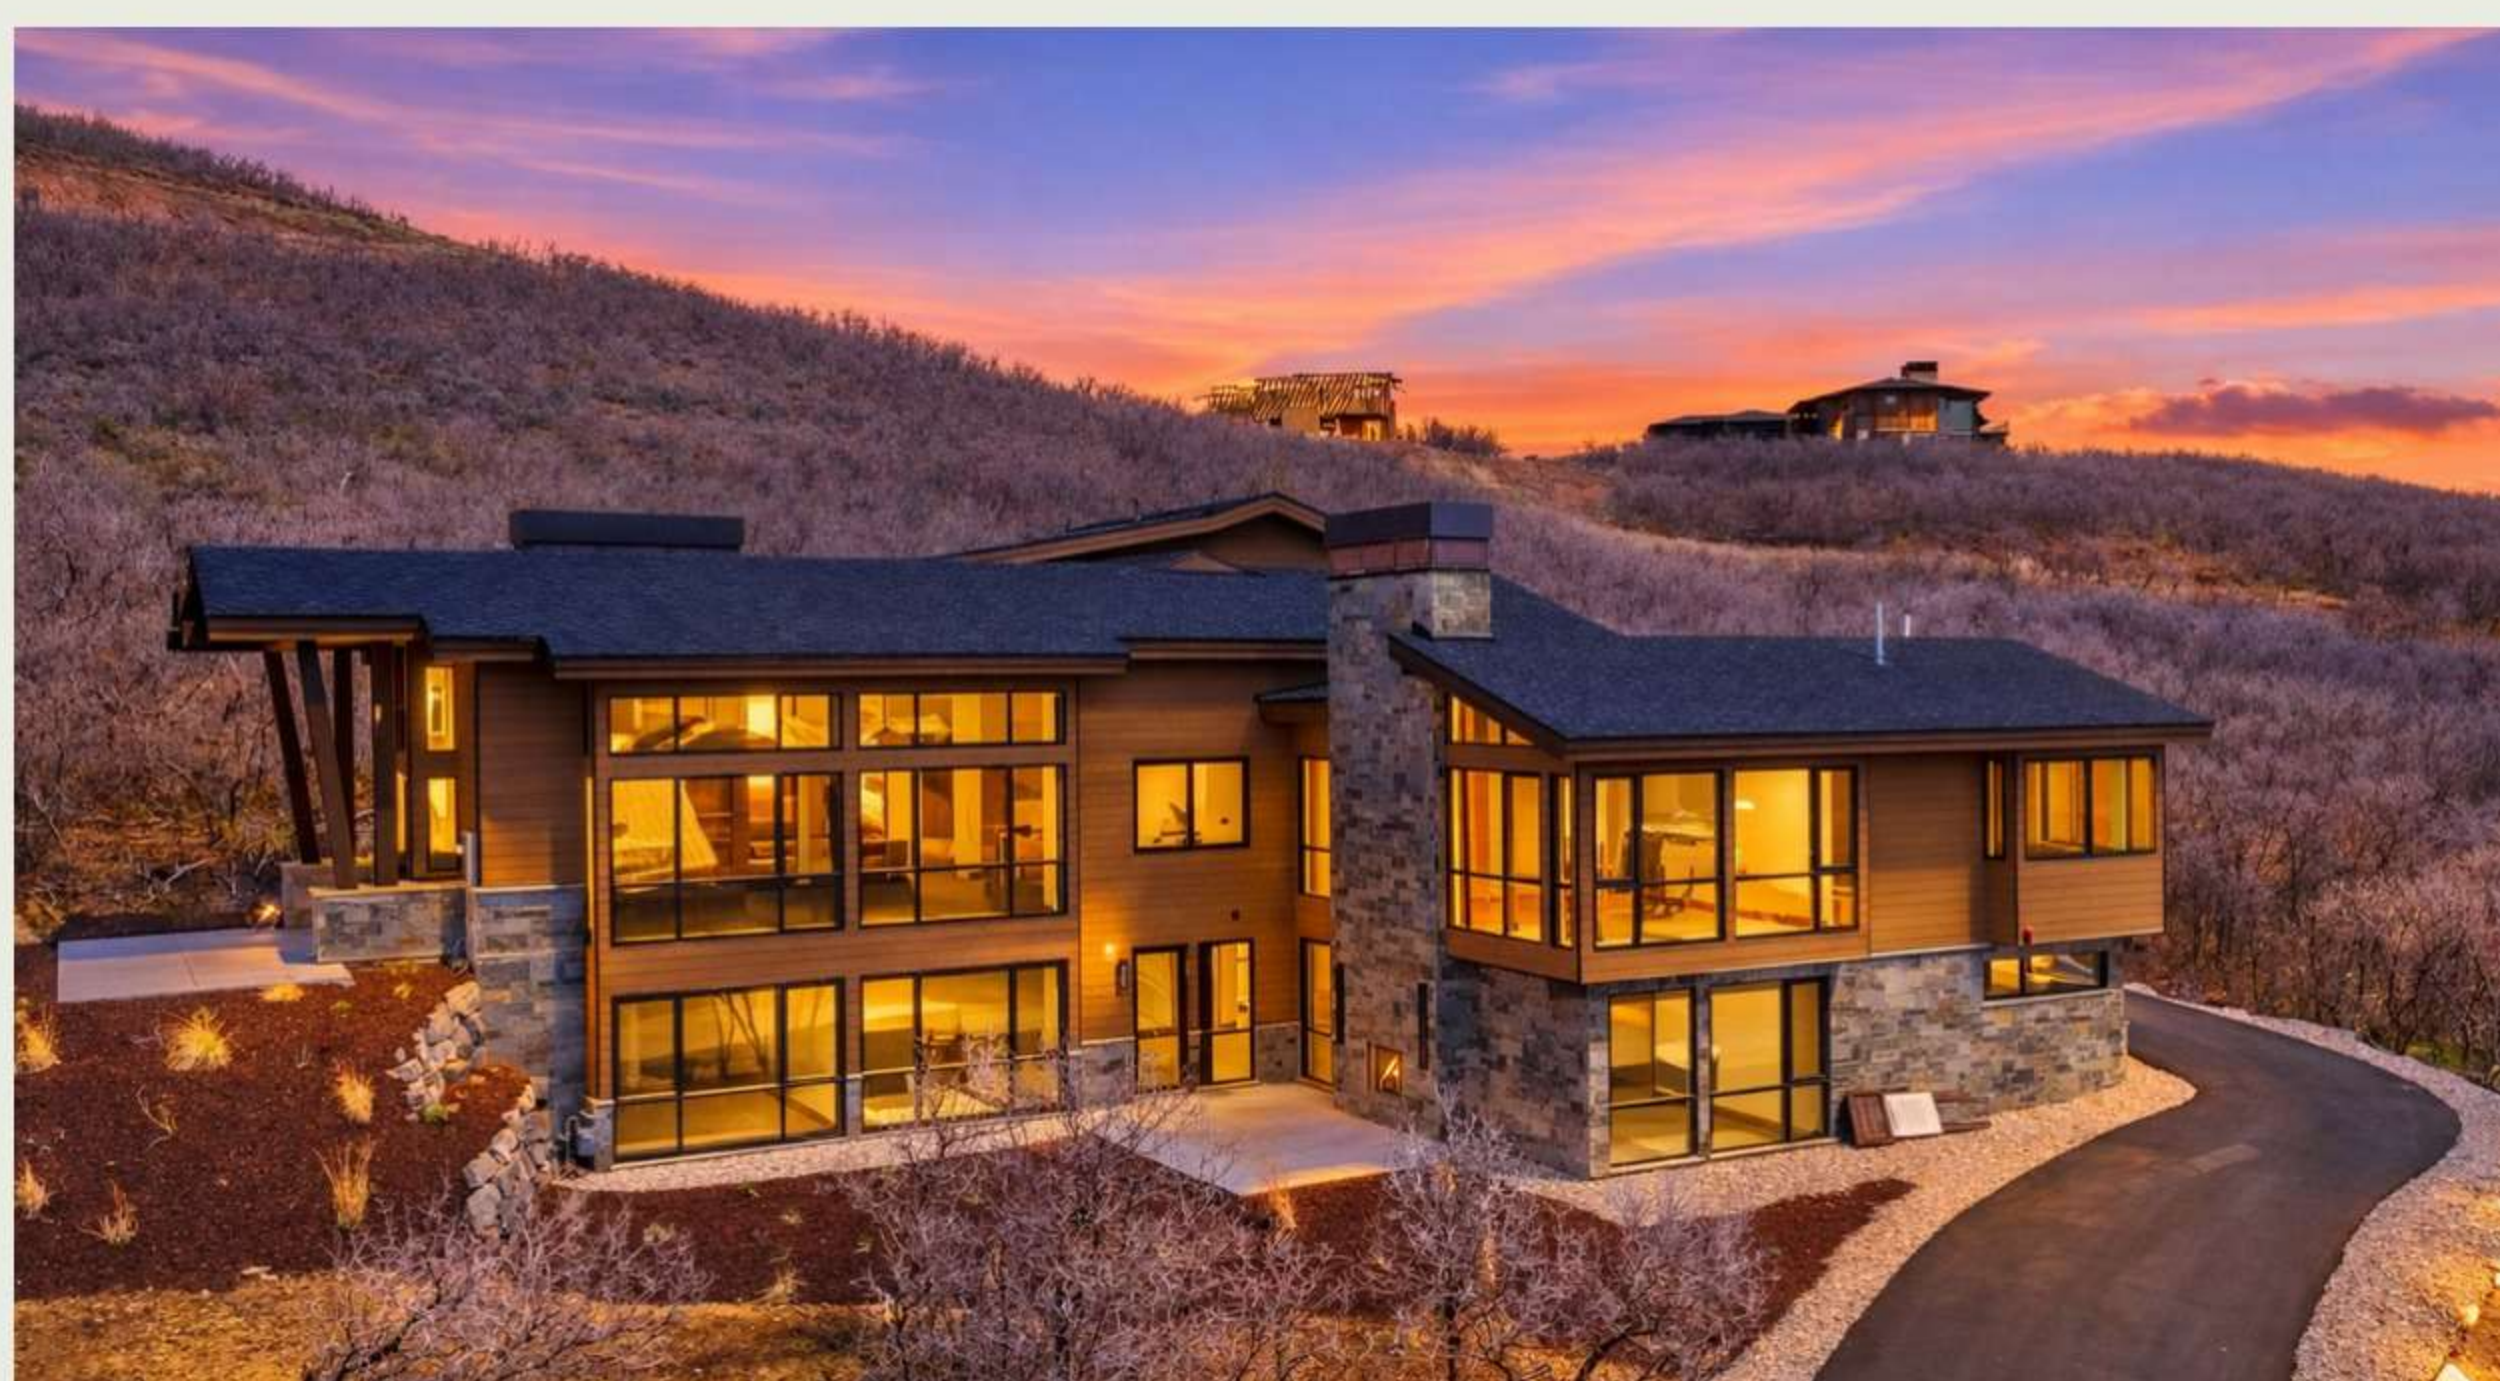

Now is the time to plan your summer visit to Park City and enjoy one of the largest networks of mountain bike and hiking trails anywhere in the country. Our lakes and reservoirs offer some of the best swimming, boating and fishing anywhere in the western US and golfers will enjoy the many public golf courses throughout the Park City area including the challenging Outlaw Golf Club in Hideout, Utah just down the road from Golden Eagle.

Steady Momentum at Golden Eagle

Sales at Golden Eagle continued at a brisk pace in March with 4 lots going under contract and two additional closed sales, nearly one transaction per week. In today's broader market, that kind of consistent momentum speaks for itself. Buyers who walk these grounds consistently tell us the same thing: the views stop them in their tracks. From the peaks of the Uintas to the slopes of Deer Valley, from Mount Timpanogos to our signature Jordanelle Reservoir water views, Golden Eagle's vistas are in a class of their own.

If you've been considering building your legacy home, the time to choose your homesite is now, as inventory continues to reduce.
