21 ROCKFORD ROAD NW

Set in Rocky Ridge, one of Calgary's highest points in the city, 21 Rockford Road has the quiet confidence of a home designed by people who intended to stay. The exterior sets the tone, sage stucco, stacked stone, and carriage-style garage doors that feel warm and built to last. A front study greets you off the entry, perfectly positioned to the front yard, full of light, and the kind of room that flexes easily between an office, a reading room, or a quiet space to start the day. Beyond it, the home opens around a custom built-in library that sits at the architectural heart of the main floor. The living room, and Kitchen, gather around it simultaneously, with shelves layered by the slow accumulation of a life well-lived: books, photographs, the small things that turn this house into a home. The kitchen is built for people who have loved to cook here. A six-burner gas range anchors the space, with stainless appliances, double wall ovens, under-cabinet lighting, and polished finishes that hold up to weeknight dinners and full-house gatherings. It flows into the living and dining nook in a way that makes hosting feel effortless, with the backyard just beyond, a quiet outdoor space that the current owners will genuinely miss. With so much natural light, the home has also been outfitted with a smart solar system that quietly works in the background to manage energy consumption. The main-floor primary is where this home really shows its thinking. There's something quietly luxurious about bungalow-style living; everything you need on one level, no stairs between you and your morning coffee or your bed at night. The ensuite is built for the way mornings actually run, with a long granite double vanity, a deep soaker tub, and a fully tiled glass shower that gives the space a spa-like ease. It opens directly into a custom-fitted walk-in closet with built-in shelving and drawers, the kind of layout that makes daily routines effortless and the home liveable for the long haul. Downstairs a full entertainment setup with projector, screen, and built-in surround sound transforms the space into a theatre on movie nights, a sports lounge, and the natural endpoint for family gatherings that stretch late into the evening. Additional rooms beyond it offer real flexibility, the current owners use one as a craft room, but the space holds room for a gym, a guest suite, bedroom for the teenage children, a studio, or whatever the next chapter calls for. Rocky Ridge itself was shaped around its natural landscape, with endless pathways, ridge-line mountain views, and one of the largest recreation facilities in the city just minutes from the door. It's a community of people who tend to stay, drawn by the views, the trails, and the quiet sense of belonging that takes years to build. This is a home shaped by a decade of intention, and is ready for whatever comes next.

THE COMMUNITY

WELCOME TO ROCKY RIDGE

The Rocky Ridge and Royal Oak community located in Calgary northwest was established in 1989. The community has grown to over 17,000 residents over the years consisting of three homeowner associations and one community association (RRROCA).

The community landscape is unique with several environmental sensitive wetland ponds throughout the area. The local Royal Oak school received an award from Ducks Unlimited for the special education program pertaining to wetlands.

The community is connected through a pathway system that winds around the wetlands and offers spectacular views of the Rocky Mountains. The residents are truly dog lovers, boasting the most dogs per capital in Calgary. RRRO offers many options for living from single housing dwellings, condos, retirement residents to townhomes.
