

RHETT BROWN, REALTOR®

RHETT BROWN LOVES WALKING IN DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE with her dogs, “Edgar” Allan Poe and Guinness, because every time she strolls the scenic city streets, she thinks how lucky she was to grow up here. As a resident, she loves being a part of the community and doing her part to make it even better. As a real estate agent, she feels fortunate to share this incredible place with the many people who dream of moving here.

“I focus on being involved in community activities, as well as being active in the real estate sector in an effort to better our profession,” she says. She recently became vice president of the North Main Community Association, is on the board of the Greater Greenville Association of REALTORS®, and is on the networking committee for the S.C. Association of REALTORS®.

This is also her fourth year on the committee for Chop! Cancer, a key fundraising event for Cancer Survivors Park Alliance, in honor of her mom, who has beaten cancer not once but three times. “That’s a cause dear to my heart,” she says.

“I’m really trying to focus on being as involved in the community as I can be, as well as in the real estate area.”

Her deep involvement with the community and her knowledge of its neighborhoods, schools and churches allow her to help buyers find the perfect spot to set down roots. After more than 20 years as a REALTORS®, she has a proven track record and has built her business largely on referrals from appreciative clients, who love how she focuses on every detail so they don’t have to worry about a thing.

While Rhett is still offering the same service and expertise she is known for, she is now at the Marchant Co., and she says the boutique atmosphere is the ideal environment for her and her team. While she works a good bit in resale, she is extremely well-versed in the area’s new construction everywhere from downtown to Five Forks in Simpsonville.

Rhett started out earning a degree in art history and art management at College of Charleston, but while at school, she needed a job and became a real estate assistant. After earning her appraisal license and sales license, she realized the work was a natural fit. Soon offered a sales position, her glowing reputation began to grow. She found that she loves working closely with people and appreciates that no two days or clients are ever the same. Most days she finds herself out and about in her beloved hometown, showing clients how lucky they will be to make Greenville their hometown, too.
