

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

520 Park Avenue, the new luxury residential tower by Zeckendorf Development with Global Holdings and Park Sixty LLC, was officially launched with champagne and hors d'oeuvres on Wednesday, September 30, and Thursday, October 1, at the 520 Park Avenue Sales Gallery at 650 Madison Avenue. The 54-story limestone tower will be the tallest building on Manhattan's historic Upper East Side. With only 33 residences in the 800-foot tall tower, the average unit price is valued at $38M. 520 Park Avenue was designed by Robert A.M. Stern Architects, extending the successful collaboration which also includes Fifteen Central Park West, where the initial sellout value topped $2 billion.

Filippa Edberg-Manuel with Nick Parker (Oxford Property Group), and Pamela Nichols (Elliman) David Dubin (Corcoran) Ginger Brokaw and Jason Karadus (Town)

William Lie Zeckendorf with Andrew Phillips, Amelia Gewirtz, John Wollberg and Lia Rose (Halstead)

Wendy Maitland and Jason Karadus (Town), with Filippa Edberg-Manuel

William Lie Zeckendorf with Andrew Phillips, Amelia Gewirtz, John Wollberg and Lia Rose (Halstead)

Bess Freedman, Louis Buckworth, Wendy Sarasohn (BHS)

Mia Trudeau (Hilton & Hyland) and Brian Lewis (Halstead)

Arthur Zeckendorf, Robert AM Stern, and William Lie Zeckendorf

Christopher Peacock

Arthur Zeckendorf and William Lie Zeckendorf

Filippa Edberg-Manuel, William Lie Zeckendorf, Arthur Zeckendorf, and Louis Buckworth