This Beverly Hills estate is, quite literally, fit for musical royalty. Once occupied by none other than the late great Prince, the sprawling 18,000 square-foot property has just been listed for sale for the princely sum of $30 million.

The six-level mansion is perched atop a hill near the intersection of Beverly Hills and Sunset Strip and includes an additional residence at 1255 Sierra Alta Way. There are also two vacant parcels on the lot for a total of 2.15 acres of land.

player's gym into a disco, changed a bedroom into a hair salon, painted purple stripes across the façade, installed purple carpet and even replaced the gold lions that adorned the front gates with his "Artist Formerly Known As" symbol.

He also held numerous live concerts and parties at property, which, with its expansive patios and panoramic city-to-ocean views, was uniquely suited for entertaining. Prince assured Boozier that when the lease was up, the mansion would look like he'd never been there, and he even wired the athlete $500,000 to ease his mind.

True to his word, the artist's outlandish furnishings were removed, and, today, the mansion exudes understated elegance. The main residence boasts bedrooms and 13 baths, along with all manner of grand amenities, including a ballroom, wine room, rooftop tennis court, gym and indoor sports court, a four-car garage, a pool with a swim-up bar and waterslide and a secretive grotto.
