

HAWAI'I ISLAND MARKET UPDATE

NOVEMBER 2025

The Hawai'i Island real estate market remained steady in November, with total residential sales reaching 184 transactions (up 7% year-over-year), while the island-wide median sales price settled at $498,500, down 9% compared to last year. This divergence between improving sales activity and softening prices reflects a market where buyers are becoming more engaged, while maintaining strong price sensitivity. With mortgage rates still lower than mid-year highs following the Federal Reserve's September rate cuts, buyer interest appears cautiously improving, though price sensitivity and location continue to shape activity patterns as the winter season approaches.
