

10 Things I Will Miss Most About This Home

Sunny Balcony Afternoons: Our covered balcony has been an extension of the living room—perfect for working outside, enjoying dinner, watching the neighborhood, and taking in the sunset.

Cherry Blossoms in Spring: Cherry Street lives up to its name. Each spring, the trees outside the windows fill with blossoms, creating a view that feels straight out of a postcard.

Exposed Brick Everywhere: The original brick walls bring warmth, character, and a sense of history to every room. It's one of the home's most distinctive features.

Beautifully Renovated Bathrooms: From the spacious walk-in shower with dual shower heads to the carefully selected fixtures and lighting, these spaces feel more like a boutique hotel than a condo.

The Community Garden: A rare city amenity. Whether growing vegetables, flowers, or simply spending time outdoors, the garden has been a favorite gathering place for residents.

Wonderful Neighbors: This is a building where people know each other. From happy hours and pizza nights to lending a hand when needed, there's a true sense of community here.

Walkability in Every Direction: Dinner on Capitol Hill, a movie downtown, a stroll to the waterfront—so many of Seattle's best destinations are just a walk away.

Favorite Neighborhood Spots: Morning coffee, poke across the street, pastries from Sugar Bakery, teriyaki from Yoshino's, or a cocktail at the Sorrento—there's no shortage of local favorites nearby.

A Connected Yet Quiet Location: Easy access to downtown, I-5, transit, and major employers, while still feeling tucked into a neighborhood with a slower pace.

The Frye Art Museum & MariPili Café: Having the Frye Art Museum just blocks away has been a gift. Between exploring new exhibitions and stopping by MariPili Café afterward, it's become one of our favorite neighborhood traditions.
