NORTH PARK SAN DIEGO

North Park is one of San Diego's most established urban neighborhoods, about 3 miles northeast of downtown and bordered by Balboa Park to the southwest. Its center is the intersection of 30th Street and University Avenue, home to the landmark North Park sign and the 1912 Stevens Building, the neighborhood's first major commercial building.

Over the past two decades the district has become one of the city's leading dining and craft-beer destinations while keeping its walkable, neighborhood-scale character. Its historic Craftsman bungalows and dense mix of apartments support a steady, local customer base within walking distance.
