Velvet Legacy

Imagine all the stars aligned and the view gods & rock gods came together to build their last homage to the legendary Sunset Strip. Presenting the most masterful mid-century modern paradise ever constructed. Sean Connery, John Lautner, and David Bowie would all give their nod to the Californication House. Hovering just above the palm trees of The City of Angels with the ultimate privacy & explosive 270-degree views in the architectural enclave of the Sunset Islands, where the icons live and collaborate to create some of the most prolific entertainment for the world. The only budget was there was no budget; everything had to be the best. Exterior cladded in Arabian black slate and Japanese Shou Sugi Ban raked wood, Roman titanium travertine vein cut floors, Brazilian green jade onyx throughout, and African walnut millwork. Framed in patina brass to accentuate the architecture. Developed and curated by Disco Volante. Architecture by Vantage Design Group and interior designs by French-style master, Victoria Gillet. The list goes on with the finest customization and, to top it all off, a plush primary suite with burnt amber crushed velvet walls and a 360-degree round rotating bed. Your very own secret night club "Disco Volante" that will take you to space and back. Chef's kitchen perfect for entertaining, emerald velvet movie theater, and a safari library with a tribute to LA icon, P-22. Crystal installation built into the foundation and placed throughout the house to connect, protect, and create a harmonious energy portal. Curated artifacts from around the globe throughout the home. Lush landscaping with Tahitian fire features and a private Japanese Bonsai tree garden. Don't miss this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. This will never ever happen again. Here is your chance to captain your own space odyssey and have all your wildest fantasies become reality.
