Located on a private promontory in Bel Air, the Orum House is a stunning, AIA award-winning example of contemporary architecture and design. Renowned architect Zoltan Pali conceptualized a 3-story residence that appears to float above its surroundings, encompassed by glass that frames panoramic views of iconic Los Angeles landmarks, including the Getty Center, Downtown L.A., and the Pacific Ocean. The steel and glass structure is comprised of three wings, which balance views, scale, and comfort to create a living experience that is both conducive to large-scale entertaining and warm, inviting family life. Spanning 18,850 square feet of interior living, 6,000 square feet of deck space, and boasting 9 bedrooms and 15 baths, the Orum House was designed with amenities for gathering, wellness, and entertainment. Notable features include dual master suites, dual chef's kitchens, shaded patios with fire pit lounges, an LED-lit pool and spa, a 1,000-bottle wine room, Dolby Atmos theater, wellness center, parking for 30 cars, and a 4-bedroom guesthouse.
