Serene Symphony

An exquisitely built architectural masterpiece by Eric Rosen Architects situated in the heart of Brentwood is all about asymmetrical lines. Hidden behind mature landscaping, hedges and gates, the ultra-modern sleek design of simple geometry is thoughtfully done to create comfortable and modern living spaces. The front of the home is almost entirely covered with grass while the backyard is equipped with a pool and a view of the surrounding landscape including the Getty Center. The sliding doors open wide to create a seamless indoor-outdoor flow with an abundance of cascading, light-filled living spaces built into the hillside. Environmentally-conscious and energy efficient design elements were incorporated into the home, including a state-of-the-art geothermal heating & cooling system, a solar powered ion pool, honeycomb radiant floors, and tankless on-demand water heating. With superior hand-selected materials and cutting edge amenities this estate is truly one-of-a-kind.
