JAMIE RAHIMIAN

As a real estate advisor with expertise in custom home development, Jamie brings unique professional insights to her buyers, sellers, and investors. Known for valuing relationships over transactions, Jamie takes pride in delivering concise information, efficiency, and a calm presence during any transaction or building process.

Jamie, co-owner of NCO, helps clients with custom home construction, resale, and purchase, or turning a fixer-upper into the perfect forever home. She is passionate about architectural, interior and landscape design.

Always seeking long-term meaning over short-term happiness, Jamie believes in the power of serving others and leads with courage and confidence. Professional, discrete, and light-hearted, she is deeply committed to providing each client with her full attention and a luxury-level standard of representation.

Q: What is one thing about you most people don't know? I spent a couple of months in Australia in my twenties studying Permaculture, which focuses on green building designs and low-maintenance food forest systems. I love bringing that knowledge into my home designs.

Q: What is something you want to learn how to do and why? I play a few instruments...guitar, ukulele, and piano. Someday, I'd love to learn to play the cello. The tones are unparalleled; I find it to be a very beautiful and moving instrument.
