Bedford is a historic New England residential town in Hillsborough County. It is an upscale suburban town with enterprising residents involved in business, sports, the arts and NH's vibrant political scene. The town is passionate about educating its children with one of the top school systems in the state. Convenient to major highways and only 50 miles to Boston, it has a direct link to the Manchester airport. There are a number of parks and natural areas providing year-round recreational opportunities.

The town was first settled in 1733 as Narragansett, No. 5 for soldiers who fought the Narragansett Indians in Rhode Island. It was incorporated as Bedford in 1750, named for Lord Russell, the Fourth Duke of Bedford. A monument dated 1737 stands on what is now known as Hawthorne Drive, marking the first settlement in Bedford.

Beginning as an agricultural community, Bedford has grown rapidly over the last fifty years. The 2018 population of 18,696 was over eight times the population in 1950 of 2,176. Every decade has had a substantial rate of growth, ranging from 33 percent between 1980-1990 to a 67 percent increase between 1950-60. Today Bedford has approximately 22,000 residents, making it the 12th largest city/town in NH.

Most of the properties in Bedford are single family residences. Industry in town is provided by a robust retail sector, including Whole Foods, Trader Joes, Lowe's and Target, many medical offices and facilities, and high tech and business offices.

Lying fully within the Merrimack River watershed, the river forms the town's eastern border. The highest point in Bedford is Holbrook Hill, at 845 feet. Known as one of the town's natural treasures is the town-owned 338-Acre Pulpit Rock Conservation Area, with walking paths among rocky outcroppings, glacial erratics and small waterfalls.

Bedford's homeowners and residents love their community! Excellent schools, preservation of town history and traditions, and strong community spirit make Bedford a special place to live. Come find out why Bedford could be the perfect community for you!

This guide is meant to be an overview of providers in town.

If you hear of other services being provided, please let me know and I'll add them to the guide. Thanks!
