Spring Fever

Spring is in the air, and for the first time, we are featuring our very own Beauty Awards from a national and local perspective. While Dallas is home to an incredible number of beauty empires (as well as beautiful people!), we are here to share some of our absolute favorites with you. From Beauty Bio's Blendrops to Noble Panacea's Overnight Chronobiology Peel, we can't get enough of science-backed beauty brands and the innovators behind them.

We top the month off with an event to not miss: the twenty-fourth annual Destiny Award Luncheon benefiting St. Philip's School & Community Center on Friday, March 8. Go to stphilips1600.org/destiny to show your support. Luncheon chairs Kelly and Marty Turco are leading efforts with a cool conversation with the one and only LL COOL J.

Later in the month and on the fashion front, Trina Turk appears at her West Village location on March 22, followed by Highland Park Village's Spring Shopping Stroll on March 23. Be sure to stop by MARKET to shop brands like Proenza Schouler and Simon Miller, with the chicest designs by Brazilian footwear designer Alexandre Birman.

You will also want to shop the most stunning bejeweled crocodile clutches by Jada Loveless at Stanley Korshak. Pair it with Fallon B's colorful collection of gems at Bachendorf's, and you are all set for St. Patty's and beyond.

Bold & Beautiful

Spring has officially sauntered into town, with the flowers in full bloom and the sun smiling down on us. It's safe to say Dallas is a true thing of beauty right now. Speaking of—welcome to our inaugural beauty issue, where we celebrate just that. From doctors to dentists to wellness gurus, this city is imbued with top-tier talents who will have you feeling your best self. When it comes to beauty, products always pop top of mind, and given the fact that the beauty industry is blazing an exciting and innovative new trail, we are at the front lines, taking note. Speaking of... where is that fountain of youth, one might wonder? That certainly is the case for me, as this month marks another dance around the sun for yours truly. So, beautiful readers, please enjoy this issue as much as we enjoyed putting it together. And with a bevy of social events, gallery openings and new restaurants galore, I hope our paths cross around town.

GUTS WORLD TOUR

Known for her heartfelt ballads and infectious pop anthems, Olivia Rodrigo is taking her music on the road with special guest Chappell Roan. This tour promises to take fans on an emotional journey, encapsulating the raw energy and relatable lyrics that have launched Rodrigo into stardom. Don't miss this exciting chance to experience the magic and emotion of her music firsthand here in Dallas. American Airlines Center, americanairlinescenter.com

Here, Olivia Rodrigo performs onstage during the 2023 MTV Video Music Awards. See her live in Dallas on March 1.

A woman with long, wavy brown hair and sunglasses is standing in a doorway. She is wearing a white, form-fitting, knee-length dress with a matching white capelet that has a zipper down the front. She is also wearing white pointed-toe pumps. The doorway has ornate black wrought-iron scrollwork. Inside the doorway, a staircase with a red carpet and a chandelier are visible. The lighting is warm and golden, suggesting late afternoon or early morning.

COLUMBIAN COUNTRY CLUB Calling all Gilded Age fans! The newly opened Columbian Country Club mirrors the mystique of New York City's iconic Golden Age era. Sitting pretty on the East Side, this opulent spot features a cheeky assortment of signature sips, including the Hanky Panky, Espresso Martini, and the storied Señor Harvey Wallenbanger. What's that, one might ask? You'll have to visit to find out. "We invite our guests to step into a world of sophistication, nostalgia, and elegance unlike anything else in Dallas," notes Briann Rutt, who founded the chic space with partners Justin Kallhoff and Jonathan Rosenberg. "You can come here to enjoy crisp martinis whether you are on business or want to enjoy a date night and sip on drinks before or after dinner or even skip dinner to enjoy bites and cocktails here." 3314 Ross Ave., 214.484.1555, columbiancc.com

Noble Panacea CEO Céline Talabaza focuses on empowering authenticity as a way to celebrate beyond the skin's surface.

The Elemental collection serves as the foundation of the skincare regimen. The Cleansing Balm and Exfoliating Refiner is a two-step ritual, and the collection also features a Hydrating Prep Essence.

Gone are the days when the Fountain of Youth was seemingly available in just one bottle. Now more than ever, it is apparent that the science behind skincare is the ultimate game changer. Insert Noble Panacea—the ultraluxe skincare brand soaring to new heights at the forefront of innovation and breakthrough technology.

Having discovered its patented technology, the Organic Super Molecular Vessel, Noble Panacea's founder, Sir Fraser Stoddart, created a collection of unrivaled products backed by science that exceeds all expectations. Stoddart, who was awarded the Nobel Prize in Chemistry in 2016, launched the groundbreaking brand at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in 2019.

Led through science-based technology, Noble Panacea sets a new standard in skincare. Leading the charge for the storied brand is CEO Céline Talabaza, who is on a mission to share Noble Panacea's mantra of empowering authenticity as a way to celebrate beyond the skin's surface. “Our mantra is ‘think beautifully,’” notes Talabaza. “It merges the thought, the intellect, the science, the rational and then the irrational in the beauty world.” Noble Panacea sets out to break the barriers within the industry, spotlighting the importance of the science behind skincare. The brand launched through problem-solving, high-tech theory, and solutions. Through the Organic Super Molecular Vessel, each product meets the skin at every phase, controlling the order and timing of the ingredient's release onto the skin. Through various steps in the skin initialization routine, the ingredients activate in a curated micro-dose process, resulting in optimal efficacy. Another way the brand creates a new narrative within the industry is its mission for women to empower other women through

The Exceptional Overnight Chronobiology Peel is the ultimate beauty game-changer, meticulously programmed to work with the skin's biorhythm overnight through the brand's cutting-edge OSMV Technology.

With sustainability at the forefront, Noble Panacea's Active Daily Doses are 100% recyclable through the brand's partnership with TerraCycle.

Backed by science, Noble Panacea uses its patented technology, the Organic Super Molecular Vessel, to control the order and timing of the product ingredients's release to the skin. For the Exceptional Overnight Chronobiology Peel, the first stage, otherwise known as “cellular renewal,” leverages the brand's OSMV Technology to release a meticulously calculated dose of AHAs & BHA. Stage two, when absorption within the skin's biorhythm peaks, launches a release of Gotu Kola, soothing the skin. The result? Waking up with your skin feeling like it had the best night's sleep.

education and science. In fact, Sir Fraser's late wife and his two daughters are talented PhD chemists. “The female influence in a laboratory is the key to success,” shares Talabaza. “Noble Panacea is dedicated to what we call self-optimizer. Those are people who look for constant improvement, curious minds looking for deeper understanding and groundbreaking solutions.” And, groundbreaking, Noble Panacea certainly is. Constantly striving to set the bar higher, the brand also prides itself on being sustainable and using biodegradable packaging. “We are leveraging green chemistry,” notes Talabaza. Working with nonprofit organization TerraCycle, the brand promotes its recycling program for its packaging. What's next for this tour de force of a brand? We will be eagerly waiting, but there is no doubt it will be worth noting. o

Mastering the Art

THE PARTY Opulence abounded as well-heeled patrons descended upon the Hilton Anatole for an evening celebrating the annual Crystal Charity Ball and the incredible support it lends to the city. “Masterpieces in the Making” was the theme de la fete, which lent itself to the creative decor for the lauded soiree. From Van Gogh to Picasso, art megawatts were fully displayed for guests to marvel at. THE PEOPLE Ball chair Angie Kadesky, who looked stunning donning a brilliant blue dress from Dallas designer Patti Flowers, joined fellow supporters in celebrating the cause, including Cara French, Tiffany Divis, Jennifer Dix, Brittney and Travis Mathews, and more. THE PINNACLE Raising an impressive pursestring that will go toward local children’s charities, the evening’s event was a spectacular success.

DENIM AND DESIRE

GIVENCHY'S VOYOU CHAIN BAG IS AS EASY AS YOUR FAVORITE JEANS AND ELEGANT ENOUGH FOR A NIGHT ON THE TOWN. WRITTEN AND STYLED BY JAMES AGUIAR // PHOTOGRAPHED BY ANDREW WERNER When the original Givenchy (givenchy.com) Voyou debuted a year ago, its casual shape and nonchalance made it an immediate hit on and off the runway. In its latest incarnation, with almost jewelry-like hardware graduating from smaller to larger, the chain slides easily over the shoulder and adds an instant hint of sophistication. With its slimmed-down shape and inner workings, complete with a roomy interior and zipped pocket for essentials, there is no doubt that this is a bag for everyday wear. Available in seasonal styles like denim (shown here), suede, metallic leather, or classic black or ivory tumbled leather, the Voyou chain bag is the statement you want to make.

Sitting Pretty

SAINT LAURENT TAKES A WALK ON THE SOFTER SIDE.

BY JAMES AGUIAR

Saint Laurent (ysl.com), a house known for its history of Left Bank cool and razor-sharp runways, offers two of the most necessary bags this spring. First up, Le 5 à 7 Supple is introduced as a smaller, padded version of the 5 à 7 with all of the original hallmarks in a newer, softer shape with the infamous Cassandra clasp and a shoulder strap to fit your needs. Available in the softest black lambskin leather, this immediate icon will last far into your fashionable future. For those who can't seem to make up their mind, the Cabas, the "it" bag seen on every "it" girl, has morphed into the Bea. This time, she is softer with the de rigueur contemporary feel, a roomy interior and the ever-important internal lace-up strings to fold in the sides of the bag. Whichever you choose, and wherever you go, the call of Paris and chic days and nights are sure to follow.

A New Look

DIOR'S CHIFFRE ROUGE TIMEPIECE COLLECTION IS REBORN, BOASTING THE SOPHISTICATED SIGNATURES OF THE MAISON.

BY PHEBE WAHL

One of the most magical things about the House of Dior (dior.com) is how the hand of its founder reverberates through the collections today. The reinvention includes eight new models that spotlight the house's iconic codes (with six styles available now and an additional two dropping in October).

Nods to Monsieur Dior are ever-present as the house re-imagines the Chiffre Rouge timepiece collection 20 years after it first launched. Like a smartly structured suit, the asymmetrical case reveals a subtly enlarged and tapered side. It also features a red crown and matching hands in the "color of life," as deemed by Dior. The number eight is vibrantly highlighted on the date display as a nod to his lucky Opt for a sleek, ultra-matte black finish or one embellished with stones. Available in two sizes, 38 mm and 41 mm, the stylish statement offers both men and women the season's new look.

THE GLENROTHES CONTINUES ITS PURSUIT OF CREATING EXCEPTIONAL WHISKEY WHILE INTRODUCING A RARE 42-YEAR-OLD RELEASE.

BY MICHAEL MCCARTHY

Who says age is only a number? Certainly not anyone who enjoys fine whiskeys. And definitely not Laura Rampling, master whiskey maker at The Glenrothes (theglenrothes.com), the luxury house of some of the world's rarest and finest single malts. The brand has crafted whiskeys in Speyside, Scotland, since 1879.

The Scottish distiller's premium and coveted bottles are aged 18, 25 and 42 years, each with a nose and finish that makes aficionados grin. Due to its unique spirit, Rampling believes that the minimum aging required for complexity is 18 years. "Eighteen symbolizes a pivotal moment in this journey where the elemental elegance of our spirit refines with effortless complexity, transitioning into a more intensely fragrant territory, rich with subtlety and nuance," she says. The brand's 18-year bottle packaging has evolved, but the contents remain the same.

On the other hand, the brand's 25-year-old whiskey recently witnessed new packaging and a change to the liquid. Rampling says, “The additional seven years—between 18 and 25—have allowed the 25 to evolve and change quite remarkably.”

The crowning achievement: The Glenrothes recently released a 42-year-old bottle; four refill casks were filled to make the new spirit in 1980. “I sampled literally hundreds of casks of varying ages before selecting these four,” Rampling says. Only 1,134 bottles exist (143 in the U.S.). Get your hands on one, and become a legend too.

WHAT YOU’LL LOVE: After maturing 18 years, the spirit has developed nuanced flavors. Two oak varieties contribute distinct dimensions to the whiskey; American oak imparts a lighter, sweeter flavor, while European oak adds richness and spice.

TASTING NOTES: The nose offers ripe pear, vanilla, almond and dried ginger; fragrant fruit and subtle oak generate a mild spiciness, counterbalanced by an undertone of creamy vanilla. We love the sweet, spicy and peppery finish.

WHAT YOU’LL LOVE: The elevated percentage of first-fill sherry-seasoned casks heightens richness, while a combination of American and European oak introduces diverse flavor profiles.

TASTING NOTES: Fans of this bottle love the nose, a mix of everything from liquid caramel to zesty orange peel to notes of cedar wood. The palate fills with creamy vanilla, ripe stone fruit, toasted almonds and Swiss milk chocolate. Expect a sweet and nutty finish.

Clockwise from top left: Details of the 25-year-old’s packaging; expect a nose of caramel and orange for the 25; the 42 offers a creamy and sweet finish; the 18-year-old’s nose features ripe pear, vanilla and almond.

WHAT YOU’LL LOVE: This sip is beautifully balanced, deriving from four casks (three hogsheads and a single puncheon) in the whiskey-making process. The iconic bottle packaging is sublime.

TASTING NOTES: Elegance abounds with this liquid’s nose, with notes of coriander seed, nutmeg, sugared almonds and a hint of fresh cedar wood. Brown sugar and honeycomb define the liquid’s palate, along with vanilla and orange oil. The finish is creamy and sweet. o

Looking Forward

PRADA BEAUTY RE-IMAGINES THE SKINCARE AND COLOR CATEGORY WITH RADICAL ELEGANCE AND TECH-POWERED CREATIVITY.

BY PHEBE WAHL

Prada, a brand known for its intellectual purity, elegance and creative material experimentation, is again challenging conventions with its recent launch of Prada Skin and Prada Color (available on nordstrom.com). Since its inception in 1913, Prada has been at the forefront of creating dialogue and pushing boundaries in the fashion industry. Now, the brand is re-imagining beauty, transforming existing definitions and expectations with a freethinking, avant-garde vision activated by technology and creativity.

Both collections feature skin-conscious and potent formulas packaged in minimal yet sophisticated designs that are unmistakably Prada. Furthermore, these products are developed with refillability as a key pillar, demonstrating Prada's commitment to luxury, functionality and environmental responsibility.

Prada has appointed two official brand talents to bridge the gap between the physical and digital dimensions: global creative makeup artist Lynsey Alexander and global creative e-makeup artist Ines Alpha. This collaboration between physical and digital artists is a groundbreaking move for a major fashion brand. The collective intelligence and vision of these "phygital" brand makeup artists play an integral role in developing colors and palettes, further reinforcing the uniqueness of the Prada Beauty experience.

Prada's approach to rethinking beauty starts with the Skin collection, which sees adaptation as the new performance. The range, from cleanser to foundation, is built on helping the skin adapt as quickly as the environment changes. Prada achieves this through the use of Adapto.gn Smart Technology, a multi-potent complex that augments the skin's ability to renew, regenerate and reinforce itself in real time.

On the other hand, Prada Color rethinks self-reinvention as the new self-expression. The Color range, which includes products for eyes and lips, offers maximal expression with minimal effort. Drawing inspiration from the Prada fashion archive, which holds an impressive collection of textiles and patterns, the eye shadow palettes showcase unexpected combinations of pigments in dynamic finishes. The lipsticks provide two perspectives on matte, paying homage to the iconic mattified lips that have graced Prada's runways since 1988.

The brand's commitment to innovation and creativity shines through in every aspect of these collections, from the carefully curated colors and textures to the sustainable packaging design. Prada's vision of beauty is not just about aesthetics, but also about empowering individuals to embrace their uniqueness and explore new possibilities. In a world where the definition of beauty constantly evolves, Prada is a beacon of radical elegance and tech-powered creativity.

Clockwise from top left: The Prada Monochrome Soft Matte buildable weightless lip color comes in 18 shades; the refillable Prada Reveal Skin Optimizing foundation comes in 33 shades; the Prada Blender's triangle tip allows for greater precision; the Prada Dimensions durable multi-effect eye shadow is offered in six palettes; the Prada Augmented Skin day and night cream boosts skin with Adapto.gn Smart Technology; the cream-to-foam Prada Augmented Skin cleanser and makeup remover.

er striking features make it easy to see why Rachel Zegler is amid a rapid rise to fame as the new reigning princess. Yet, behind all that beauty are brains and an unabashedly brilliant talent. After her breakout, Golden Globe-winning role playing Maria in Steven Spielberg's musical adaptation of West Side Story, Zegler continues to dazzle, lighting up the screen most recently as Lucy Gray Baird in The Hunger Games: The Ballad of Songbirds & Snakes. She is the fresh face of Disney's iconic re-imagining of Snow White, and has recently joined the elite circle of Dior's global ambassadors, marking a momentous chapter in her meteoric rise.

"It's been amazing to work alongside Disney to breathe life into such an iconic fairy tale," she says of the film slated to release soon. Zegler shares the film is packed with the quintessential beauty moments one would expect. "Of course, she's an iconic Disney princess, and so a lot of those iconic beauty moments for her are still scattered throughout the film," she says.

Beyond the Disney world, Zegler has made her mark in the aesthetic realm as a global ambassador for Dior. "It's been so wonderful," she says of joining the Dior family. The young actress talks fondly of her inclusion in Dior's power circle, joining the ranks of Anya Taylor-Joy, Yara Shahidi and fellow newcomer Dilraba Dilmurat. "I never really imagined myself to be the face of a beauty campaign. It's been very, very cool," she says. "And everyone's been so supportive."

"There's a sisterhood within the Dior family that is undeniable," Zegler shares. "And it's been really fun to go from seeing these incredible young women during Paris Fashion Week to suddenly working with them on a bustling set that can only be compared to a fashion and beauty factory with cameras. They capture the essence of Dior's legacy with their personal balance of strength and elegance."

Dior top and skirt with CD buckle, dior.com.

Makeup: Dior Forever Glow Veil, Dior Forever Skin Glow in No. 2N, Dior Forever Skin Correct in No. 1N, Rouge Blush in No. 028 Actrice, Diorshow Brow Styler in No. 004 auburn, Diorshow 5 Couleurs in No. 649 Nude Dress, Diorshow On Stage Crayon in No. 099 black, Diorshow Iconic Overcurl in No. 090 black, Rouge Dior Contour in No. 720 Icone, Rouge Dior in No. 720 Icone Satin and Dior Vernis in No. 108 Muguet.

"THERE'S A SISTERHOOD WITHIN THE DIOR FAMILY THAT IS UNDENIABLE."

At Dior, Zegler worked with creative and image director Peter Philips and serves as a face for the house's Rouge Dior campaign. "I think he's so wonderful," says Zegler of Philips. "He's one of those really unassuming legends that when you meet him, he's just really humble and wonderful. He has so many amazing stories about the span of his career in this industry."

Philips clearly rubbed off on the young talent. "I really love 720—but I am a sucker for a classic lip. My everyday is usually something more nude (like a good 221, or like a 539, which is like a little bit more red)," she says, rattling off her favorite lipstick shades like a seasoned pro. "I am a Dior Rouge Contour truther," she says, laughing. "I believe in lip liner. I like an overline to fill in with whatever shade I want," she says. "But I also think it's whatever works for you. ... It's a wonderful form of self-expression."

"Makeup has always been a wonderful escape for me. It adds an element of fearlessness to the way I carry myself, whether on set, on a red carpet or on the streets of Manhattan," Zegler explains, sharing that hair and makeup also help inform her character development. "It's usually the last thing, the last piece of the puzzle, when you're working on a movie or a TV show," she says. "I know, in particular, for Lucy Gray, it was so integral to my characterization of her to feel myself in the costume, the wig and all of the makeup that it gave me that final touch into understanding who she was. So it's so important, and it is just that final touch of transformation because you can do so much work on a character on paper between you and your director, but nothing compares to that final moment of stepping onto the set as your character and getting to embrace that for the first time."

As for her next project, Zegler hints there are even more beauty and fashion moments to come. "There are some great fashion moments in it," she says about her upcoming A24 '90s nostalgia film, Y2K. "I think it's gonna make everyone really nostalgic for when we used to wear butterfly clips in our hair," she says. "We had the best time because it was the really frosty eye shadow and the really frosty lip gloss."

In other words, stay tuned for more for your mood board. o

CARRYING ON THE PREVENTIVE LEGACY

TYLER C. COOPER MD, MPH
PRESIDENT & CEO
COOPER AEROBICS/
COOPER CLINIC
PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

Dr. Tyler Cooper wasn't always planning to follow in his father's footsteps, he realized, however, the tremendous impact Cooper Clinic has on improving people's quality and length of life. As President and CEO of Cooper Aerobics, it's reasonable to expect he'd have minimal free time, but in addition to his job, he gives back to the community in a multitude of ways. He currently serves on the Board of Regents for Baylor University, the Board of Trustees for The Cooper Institute®, as well as participating in advisory boards for Baylor University Robbins College, The UTSA Medical School alumni advisory board and the IHRSA Medical Board. Not surprisingly, Dr. Cooper is also physically active, enjoying outdoor activities such as climbing, skiing, and surfing. Living life to the fullest, he helps others do the same, by adopting healthy habits to ensure they can age well with optimal life quality.

"Every component of our business aids us in improving the lives of those we reach. Cooper Aerobics (including our six for-profit health and wellness entities) is based on the foundation/principles of our faith and family serving others," Dr. Cooper explains. "We're not interested in growing our business simply for the sake of growth—we're interested in reaching people, meeting them where they are, and helping them to better their health and lifestyle. The vast majority of what we do here at Cooper is prevention-based. Whereas most of health care in the United States is acute and chronic disease care, we are in the business of trying to stop these issues before they occur. I am inspired by my dad, who at 93 years old, continues to thrive, thanks to having implemented this preventive lifestyle decades ago."

WELLNESS & DISEASE PREVENTION

BLAKE BOLIN, MD, FAAFP
PREVENTIVE MEDICINE PHYSICIAN
COOPER CLINIC

Preventive Medicine Physician, Dr. Blake Bolin, knows healthy living and disease prevention are the most important factors in avoiding illness and facilitating longevity. Whenever possible, he encourages patients to make lifestyle changes prior to considering medical treatment. At Cooper Clinic, his patients complete extensive testing in six standard components and receive same-day results for their comprehensive preventive medical exam. Dr. Bolin applies his 25 years of experience as an attending physician to direct them on a healthy path. "I enjoy having unlimited time to spend with each patient—I've always envisioned a role where I could use my knowledge and experience to develop continuity relationships that improve someone's life," Dr. Bolin says of his work. "Cooper Clinic provides an extremely comprehensive and directed evaluation, so we are both efficient and effective. We have the time, information and resources to create a "snapshot" of each patient's health and formulate an individualized plan to help patients maximize their health potential."

EVALUATION & MANAGEMENT OF SLEEP DISORDERS

SONYA L. MERRILL MD, PHD, FACP
SLEEP MEDICINE PHYSICIAN
COOPER CLINIC

Our overall well-being is inextricably linked to the quantity and quality of our sleep. When either component is compromised, our physical and emotional health can suffer. Dr. Sonya Merrill identifies and treats sleep disorders, thereby improving her patients' lives in very tangible ways. Adhering to the philosophy, "good sleep is the foundation of good health," Dr. Merrill thoroughly assesses the whole person. "Every patient deserves my undivided attention and an unhurried, comprehensive evaluation," Dr. Merrill explains. "I strive to get to the root of the problem rather than provide superficial, formulaic answers. The specialty of sleep medicine enables me to use my training in psychiatry and internal medicine daily. Although the focus of my practice is sleep disorders, I consider myself an internist first and foremost. I'm honored so many patients have chosen to partner with me in improving their sleep, and I enjoy the long-term relationships we've formed."

PAUL DE ZAGON

(A BERKSHIRE HATHAWAY AFFILIATE)
REALTOR®

Paul is a seasoned professional with a wealth of experience spanning finance and real estate. Boasting nearly a decade in real estate, backed by an impressive 18-year career on Wall Street, he brings a profound understanding of the macroeconomic landscape that impacts both buyers and sellers.

In his approach to real estate transactions, Paul emphasizes the importance of actions over words, drawing inspiration from Benjamin Franklin's quote, "Well done is better than well said." This philosophy underscores his commitment to delivering tangible results for his clients. He attributes his continued success to a combination of qualities, including honesty, transparency, market knowledge, tenacity and unwavering professionalism.

With a distinguished collection of sales awards, Paul has honed his skills in finding the delicate balance between timing and price. Leveraging his finance background, he guides clients with a rational perspective, navigating them throughout the process without undue stress or emotions.

As a bilingual professional fluent in both French and English, Paul effortlessly connects with a diverse clientele, broadening his ability to handle a wide range of deals. Geographically, he tailors his focus to North Dallas, Lake Highlands, Preston Hollow, Highland Park, University Park, Plano and Frisco.

A notable highlight in Paul's career includes setting a record for the most expensive condo ever sold in a fiercely competitive market—a remarkable achievement at $3.9 million, or $1,383 per square foot. This accomplishment not only surpassed the previous record for a condominium owned by a retired NFL quarterback but also reflected Paul's success in securing the listing after a failed attempt to sell by a prominent agent.

Paul is happy to share a complimentary perspective and analyze your real estate goals.

AMY MESSER

DOUGLAS ELLIMAN
SALES AGENT

When searching for the perfect property in Dallas, turn to native Texan and accomplished real estate agent, Amy Messer. She specializes in central Dallas, specifically Highland Park, Preston Hollow, Kessler Park, Oak Lawn, Turtle Creek, M Streets and Lakewood. What sets this powerhouse agent apart is her unyielding dedication to her clients. Messer prioritizes listening to her clients' needs, understanding their emotions and searching high and low for the ideal property to suit their specifications.

"It's never about the deal for me, always the person," says Messer.

Last year, Messer worked on a milestone listing for clients searching for a specific home. They had searched for over a year with several agents and couldn't find the home they wanted. Intent on closing on a house by the end of the year, they gave Messer three weeks to find the property of their dreams, and Messer did just that.

Messer attributes her career successes to "staying focused on the client, constantly researching and learning and super clear communication."

Throughout her career, Messer has been fortunate to work alongside successful entrepreneurs and visionaries who have helped shape her goals and business expertise. Many of her closest friends are business owners whose fortitude and successes continuously inspire her.

With a deep appreciation for art and design, Messer revels in her role and thoroughly enjoys exploring properties. As for the future of real estate, this Industry Leader is excited. "The development we've seen in Dallas over the last few years has been incredible. The Dallas market has the perfect combination of population growth, cultural diversity and amazing investment potential," says Messer.

For award-winning real estate maven Sharon Redd of Dave Perry-Miller Real Estate, building meaningful relationships with her clients is the first step to helping them achieve their dreams. A top-producing realtor, her sales reached $42 million last year alone. With 20 years in the real estate industry, she's one of Dallas' premier luxury agents and regularly utilizes her background in management to aid her clients.

While she thoroughly understands neighborhoods throughout the Dallas Fort Worth metroplex and has sold listings in all of them, she has specific expertise in Preston Hollow and the Park Cities area. This Industry Leader champions putting her clients' needs first. "I start with building the relationship and then move into the business aspect. This is a relationship business—once trust is established, we can be successful," says Redd. She prioritizes leading her clients with integrity, honesty and tenacity, eager to collaborate in a genuine partnership manner.

While Redd's career has been fruitful thanks to her skillful negotiations, keen business acumen and loyal network, she attributes her career victories to her mentors. "I have had amazing mentors throughout my career. I listened and soaked up everything I could from each agent I had the privilege to work with," explains Redd.

Always with an eye for innovation, Redd is excited to utilize social media further to show her listings and learn all of Dave Perry-Miller Real Estate's cutting-edge tools. Her passion for the industry is unwavering, and her desire to help others never fails.

"Every day is different, and you never do the same thing twice, and I love that about the business. I learn something new every day," shares Redd.

ASHLEY RUPP

ALLIE BETH ALLMAN AND ASSOCIATES
SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT

Home is where the heart is for Dallas real estate agent Ashley Rupp. She's the senior vice president at Allie Beth Allman and Associates and has been a top-producing residential real estate agent since 1995. Rupp passionately helps clients find their perfect home, taking note of their needs and providing swift customer service. "Home means everything," says Rupp.

This Industry Leader has a thorough understanding of real estate throughout the Dallas Fort Worth metroplex with expertise in Highland Park, University Park, Preston Hollow, Turtle Creek and Lakewood, to name a few.

Throughout her impressive career, Rupp has carved a path of distinction in the industry by providing a boutique, high-end concierge experience for her clients. Championing personalized service, Rupp prides herself on intently listening to her clients, understanding their needs and executing their goals.

"When I hear what a client wants, I go into action," she shares. "When getting a home ready to sell, I use my market knowledge to price it right, put a strategic marketing plan together and connect the right buyer and top-level agents."

As for the future of real estate in Dallas, Rupp is thrilled to see its continued evolution.

"I am excited about Dallas. Dallas has become a leading city in the U.S., and we have experienced many corporate relocations, which will help drive population and job growth. This job growth is great for real estate in Dallas," says Rupp.

This dynamic and hard-working agent cares about making a difference in the lives of those around her, saying, "I am all about people and making sure they get where they want to be."

GETTING FRESH MAISON FRANCIS KURKDJIAN LEVELS UP YOUR LAUNDRY GAME WITH THE DEBUT OF ITS EXPANSION OF THE BELOVED AQUA UNIVERSALIS LAUNDRY CARE LINE. BY PHEBE WAHL

“Simply fresh and ethereal, Aqua Universalis is a universal fragrance for everyone and everything,” says Francis Kurkdjian. As the master behind Maison Francis Kurkdjian (franciskurkdjian.com), the celebrated perfumer recently unveiled an expansion of the collection to include an ultraluxe linen mist. The mist perfectly complements the Aqua Universalis scented detergent and fabric softener. As the newest step in Kurkdjian’s fabric care ritual, the Aqua Universalis linen mist offers the maison’s signature blend of bergamot from Calabria, citron from Sicily, and lily of the valley and mock orange leaves. Delicate and sublimely subtle, it will surely breathe fresh air into laundry day.

Q&A with

JOSEPH A. KELLING, M.D.

PLASTIC SURGEON

*Try to be 100% present in the moment.
Learn from the past, but do not let the past weigh you down.*

Question 1: Why did you choose your specialty?

Plastic surgery is such a unique specialty within medicine that allows a surgeon to empower their patients to be more effective by restoring or rejuvenating their physical form. This really drew me to the specialty. I also really cherish the friendships that I develop with my patients along the way.

Question 2: What sets you and your practice apart?

With every consultation and interaction, I focus on educating my patients as much as possible about the surgical and recovery process. I am also focused on being candid and honest with my patients so that they have appropriate expectations going into surgery. Lastly, if you come to my office, my staff and I want you to feel like a member of our family. Our focus is on creating high quality relationships rather than focusing on quantifying patients.

Question 3: What do you consider to be the keys to your success?

I have found that the key to my success has always been a tenacious perseverance for the goals that I have set for myself. Success is not a straight line so embrace and learn from your failures, but never give up on your desired intention. There is beauty in the struggle to get there.

Question 4: What is the most rewarding aspect of your work?

I really enjoy the interactions I have with my patients. Each person has such an interesting story to tell, and I am grateful that they have chosen me to take care of them so I can hear that story. I love that I can help someone feel more confident in him or herself so that they can become more empowered in their own story going forward.

Question 5: What is the best advice you can share?

If you are going to do something, fully commit to it. Try to be 100% present in the moment. Learn from the past, but do not let the past weigh you down.

LAUDED LINEN HOUSE PEACOCK ALLEY (PEACOCKALLEY.COM) CELEBRATES FIFTY YEARS OF BEING AT THE FOREFRONT OF EXQUISITE DESIGN AND CRAFTSMANSHIP. HERE, A LOOK AT THE BRAND'S RICH HISTORY.

BY JANE HUMPHREY

- 1941 Peacock Alley founder, Mary Ella Gabler, born in Pennsylvania Dutch Country (develops passion for linens and textiles from early age)
- 1965 Gabler becomes one of the first female stockbrokers on Wall Street
- 1971 Mary Ella's "hobby" of making the Patchwork pillow is recognized by Neiman Marcus (with an order of 250 pillows)
- 1973 Peacock Alley becomes officially incorporated... cheers are in order
- 1982 The brand's signature look of the All-White Bed debuts and is quickly carried in over 500 specialty stores
- 2003 The company sets up shop in its current 100,000-square-foot headquarters in Dallas and combines shipping, manufacturing and corporate offices all under one roof
- 2009 Embracing the ever-evolving technology, Peacock Alley launches its ecommerce channel
- 2010 The first flagship store in Dallas makes its grand debut
- 2024 Ushering in a new era, the brand will be moving—relocating its Dallas Flagship to Fairmount Street into a beautiful home circa 1900

“Some days it feels like yesterday, but it was 50 years ago that I started Peacock Alley and we have so much more to do! What began as sewing pillows from my home garage has grown into something I could have never imagined. Opening our new flagship store in Dallas this anniversary year is truly meaningful—it feels like coming home.

MODERN LUXURY SPOTLIGHT

GALVESTON:

MORNING: If you like a slightly spontaneous start to the day, don your walking shoes and head out to the beach. Stroll the sands until you come across the place you want to pause for a coffee, and/or breakfast, and energize yourself for the upcoming hours. Perhaps Miller's Seawall Grill for great food and ambiance, or BLVD Seafood for a satisfying brunch. Once you've fueled up, check out the museums. Enjoy the grandeur of the 1892 Bishop's Palace, take a tour of Moody Mansion, or explore the traveling exhibits such as Washed Ashore: Art to Save the Sea. Don't forget to drop by the Galveston Railroad Museum, for an educational and exciting experience for the whole family.

AFTERNOON: Consider chartering a boat for family friendly fishing! There are a variety of high quality outfits, such as Get Hooked Fishing Charters Galveston. Don't forget your sunblock! If you're in the shopping mood, take a stroll through the quirky collection of locally-owned boutiques and antique stores on The Strand. Grab some famous saltwater taffy at La King's Confectionery (2323 Strand St.), then catch a ride on the trolley to Moody Gardens, where interactive family fun awaits.

EVENING: No trip to Galveston is complete without an evening out at the acclaimed Rudy & Paco (2028 Postoffice St.) Afterward, take a quick stroll over to the Grand 1894 Opera House, to enjoy impressive shows featuring theater, music, dance, or opera. Having survived the storms of 1900 and 1915 this venue is a particularly special space.

MORNING: Start the day with a walk along the water, or a bike down the tree-lined streets of the East End Historical District. The "Turtles About Town" community art project showcases the Turtle Island Restoration Network's conservation efforts to protect the endangered marine species. Once you've warmed up, perhaps play a game of pick-up pickleball or volleyball at the energetic East Beach. If you're there in the summer be sure to check out the widely celebrated AIA Sandcastle Competition and take in the artistic sand sculptures.

AFTERNOON: After your lunch (and a little time to digest!) head on over to Galveston Island Historic Pleasure Pier, where you can ride the Texas Star Flyer, the Cyclone, the Pirate's Plunge, and others. If you'd prefer something more sedate, take trip to Pier 21 instead, where you can tour the Ocean Star Offshore Drilling Rig Museum or follow in the footsteps of early immigrants while surveying the "Ship To Shore" exhibit at the Galveston Historical Foundation's Historic Seaport. If you're craving something cold after all this exploring—grab some ice cream at Hey Mickey's Ice Cream (2120 Postoffice St.).

EVENING: Enjoy a two hour sunset cruise around the harbor with Galveston Water Adventures. If you're not feeling like getting back on the water, start your night with a cocktail at the Tremont House's redesigned Rooftop Bar, (2300 Ship Mechanic Row St.), then scoot on over for a bite at Shark Shack Beach Bar & Grill. Wrap up the evening with some live music at 23rd Street Station Piano Bar, then head to bed—because you'll want to wake up early to begin planning your next trip back to these beautiful beaches! For travel planning please check out visitgalveston.com.

GALVESTON: UPCOMING EVENTS

MARCH

MARCH 08-17 SPRING BREAK PASS

What's better than access to 1 park? Access to 3! The pass is valid at Kemah Boardwalk, Downtown Aquarium Houston, and Galveston Island Pleasure Pier. The visits are unlimited so it's easy to take a break, and let the kids rest (or let the adults rest), then go back for more!

MARCH 10 DRONE SHOW TAKES THE SKY

The skies over historic downtown Galveston will light up with hundreds of drones on March 10. Visitors to the island can take their places on The Strand between the Galveston Railroad Museum and Saengerfest Park. The drones will begin flying at dusk and will dazzle spectators with 3D scenes, animations and lifelike motions in the sky above.

THROUGH MARCH 31 WASHED ASHORE: ART TO SAVE THE SEA EXHIBIT

This traveling art exhibit is designed to teach the public about the hazards of plastic pollution in the world's waterways.

It is a complimentary, family-friendly display, featured at various locations across the island. Not only is the art beautiful and impressive, but the message imparted, taking care of our water, is important and impactful.

LUXURY TOURING GOES NEXT LEVEL WITH GLOBE-TROTTING PRIVATE JET ADVENTURES FROM TCS WORLD TRAVEL. BY J.P. ANDERSON

From African wildlife adventures to journeys to the world's historic capitals, TCS specializes in once-in-a-lifetime travel experiences.

For elite travelers, flying first class doesn't quite cut it anymore. These days, it's all about private jet travel, with its abundant perks, custom itineraries and personalized service making for the ultimate in exclusivity. Few companies know that as well as TCS World Travel (tcsworldtravel.com), which since 1991 has led nearly 300 all-inclusive, ultraluxe jet tours to 200-plus destinations, from wildlife-focused jaunts to Africa and India to grand around-the-world voyages, all in intimate group settings with five-star food, drink, accommodations and experiences. As the private travel sector heats up, what makes TCS stand out? "We offer travel experiences that aren't just trips, but rather enriching, transformative journeys," says the company's president, Shelley Cline, who also notes TCS's exceptional team of travel experts. "We offer a different type of luxury that goes beyond the standard definition; it's the luxury of exceptional service, comfort, privacy and convenience, combined with exclusive access and once-in-a-lifetime experiences." To come in the year ahead: more of the group's signature around-the-world trips ("a perennial favorite," says Cline), plus new itineraries including off-the-beaten-path destinations like Uzbekistan, Turkmenistan, Greenland and the Faroe Islands. Luxury travel around the globe with no security lines, no layovers and the utmost comfort and service? Sign us up.

plants it here because of the calm water, relocating the healthy adults to replenish dying reefs.

The sun shines without being overwhelming, a welcome respite after yesterday's rainstorm. Halfway through our excursion, we stop at a private cove and enjoy the gorgeous scenery. I wade out into the seemingly endless expanse, luxuriating in the gentle embrace of the sea. I drag my feet along the ocean floor with each step, a suggestion from our guide to avoid stepping on one of the area's native stingrays.

As the group I'm traveling with heads back to the beach, we're greeted by a pack of white-faced monkeys lurking in the trees. We've been warned about these creatures—a few days before, our driver animatedly recounted how the tricksters stole a burrito right out of his hands. They stare at us with curious eyes, and a few even let us near, but alas, we have no food and are no longer their marks. They depart gracefully, swinging through the dense foliage with impeccable ease.

The chilly morning air caresses my face as I paddle along Costa Rica's stunning Pacific shoreline. I've never paddleboarded before, but the calm sea beckons and I feel compelled to answer its call.

This experience is one of many that guests can expect at Villa Avellana (villaavellana.com), a new kind of tropical getaway that sits on 3 acres of lush beachfront in a private community on Peninsula Papagayo in Guanacaste, Costa Rica.

A slow ache creeps into my arms as we continue, but the beauty surrounding me is so intoxicating that I almost don't notice. The crystal-clear water allows a near-perfect look at the kaleidoscope of coral on the seafloor. Our guide informs us that a local college

...CONTINUED only buyouts, with 10 generous guest rooms hosting up to 23 people. I luck out with an oceanfront patio, each night enjoying unbelievable sunsets and the lapping of the waves on the shore before retreating to what the entire group agrees are the softest sheets we've ever slept on.

Further exploration of the property uncovers only greatness. Contemporary designs allow the stunning vistas to take center stage, and local art adorns the walls. My favorite pieces are the chic wooden surfboards—they inject a sense of whimsy into the space without being overly gauche. Dips in the 82-foot lap pool are even more refreshing after a day of tiring excursions, while the cozy entertainment room is perfect for laid-back movie nights. A two-story yoga deck, where we delight in sumptuous massage treatments in the open air, rounds out the offerings.

During our free time, we lounge on the expansive outdoor patio, sipping cocktails, soaking in the views and chatting with the villa's impressive staff. General manager Thomas Freitag leads the charge, overseeing 22 dedicated team members anticipating and accommodating our every need. Two words to describe them? Flexible and fun. They're more than happy to answer questions and interact (or not) according to the guest's desires. We like to talk, and they are happy to oblige.

We also like to eat, and the food doesn't disappoint. A nine-course tapas-style dinner at the poolside bar, complete with a knowledgeable sommelier providing generous pours of her favorite California vinos, might be one of my favorite meals ever. The property's private chef likes to play with texture in new, unexpected ways, and we dine on mahi-mahi tacos on a crispy beet shell, shrimp-and-sweet-plantain croquettes and Costa Rican oysters. What a feast—and what a place. Somewhere, I know a gaggle of monkeys is extremely jealous. o

Clockwise from top left: the newly remodeled spa offers guests and day players the perfect respite; the hotel sits pretty at 21 stories high; the hotel's renovation included enhanced comforts to all 218 guest rooms and suites.

THE NEWLY RENOVATED RITZ-CARTLTON, DALLAS SUMMONS YOU TO SEEK SANCTUARY IN ITS REIMAGINED OASIS.

BY JANE HUMPHREY

Nestled in the heart of downtown Dallas lies one of the city's most beloved staples—a hotel that has stood the test of time and been on the hot-to-trot list since opening its doors in 2007. And, although this lauded landmark has aged like a fine wine, there always comes a time to hit the refresh button. And, refresh, they did. Having recently undergone a little face-lift—the multimillion-dollar kind, but of course—the uber-luxe oasis recently made its grand rentrée. Indeed, it is one to note—even for the most discerning of travelers.

The ultrachic oasis marries the ultimate mixture of rich history and storied traditions with a modernized twist, providing guests with the ultimate experience. Spearheaded by Texas-based design firm Rottet Studio, the newly improved spot is a sanctuary filled with the perfect dose of glitz and glam.

Standing tall at 21 stories high, the hotel boasts many options for all to enjoy. Dine at Fearing's Restaurant, where guests can revel in the ultimate western-chic dining experience; grab a cocktail at the famed Rattlesnake Bar; take a dip in the pool routing Texas-sized views; or opt to spend the day at the newly unveiled 12,000 square-foot spa magically reimagined by design firm ForrestPerkins. Whatever route you are seeking for some R&R or an over-the-top experience, the fresh new face of the hotel awaits with bated breath. o

THE COMPASS SCHOOL OF TEXAS

Inspiring students to be creative and confident leaders of tomorrow.

The mission of The Compass School of Texas is to provide an engaging and wholesome academic foundation that fosters analytical and independent thinking. We value the partnership among families, educators, and students. Our educational approach instills the joy of learning through intentionally curated classrooms and natural environments. Compass students will have the opportunity to explore and discover through multi-disciplinary learning and authentic experiences.

The Compass School of Texas offers a robust curriculum for each grade with a unique approach that incorporates phonics, reading comprehension, STEM, nature, and entrepreneurship. Compass offers a child-centered approach to learning that finds the profound potential in every student. We define child-centered as valuing and respecting children's thoughts, inquiries, and ideas. Teachers plan and design lessons by providing multiple lenses for each topic and guiding students to explore with creativity and imagination. Each student will have daily Spanish classes, chess coaching, and the opportunity to grow and harvest their own food through a comprehensive Farm to Table program and chicken coop. Our philosophy makes learning visual by documenting the educational journey and bringing families into the process of learning. We believe that analytical thinking is at the core of learning so we completely involve students in analyzing stories, solving problems, and hypothesizing the outcome of experiments to further understand the connection of school subjects and real life opportunities.

“The Compass School of Texas encourages students to be curious, to figure out the “why,” building a foundation of life-long learning, analytical discovery, and leadership.—Shelly Sender, Head of School”

TO SUCCEED IN Ivy League ADMISSIONS

Students Need More Than An Elite Private School

By Halston Brown

Dallas has exploded as a hub of business, arts, and culture, becoming one of the few booming U.S. metropolises that offers an enviable cost of living. In the midst of the city's renaissance, many families are flocking to the metroplex to take advantage of one of the area's additional benefits—exceptional private schools. From St. Mark's to Hockaday School to Ursuline Academy and Greenhill School, Dallas-area private schools boast rigorous curricula, sophisticated research opportunities, state-of-the-art facilities, and faculty who are experts in their fields.

However, despite the abundant benefits these institutions have to offer, parents who think that attending a Dallas private school will be their child's ticket to the Ivy League should think again.

In the past, perfect grades and test scores were enough to gain admission to top schools, but prestigious universities are now looking to admit students who are specialists in their area of interest. Rather than admitting thousands of well-rounded students, colleges are constructing well-rounded classes, according to Christopher Rim, Founder and CEO of Command Education, a premier college consulting firm.

"It's not enough to be the valedictorian at the top private school in your city," says Rim. "Ivy League institutions could fill their entire incoming freshman classes with students from rigorous, highly-ranked private schools. Instead, they are admitting entrepreneurs, nonprofit founders, researchers, artists, and changemakers. Becoming that kind of student requires more time and strategy than even the best private school college counselor can provide."

Elise Tyler discovered this firsthand when her oldest daughter, Sophie, began to think about college. Tyler and her husband relocated their family from Los Angeles to the Bluffview neighborhood of Dallas in 2020, seeking to establish themselves in a vibrant city with exceptional schooling options for their daughters as they entered high school. "Sophie had already started talking about her dream of becoming a doctor, and Covid made the already daunting college admissions process seem like a nightmare," says Tyler. "I figured that the caliber of private school we chose for Sophie would surely be able to help her get into the programs she was interested in."

However, Tyler's confidence was shattered in the spring when neither the valedictorian nor the salutatorian from their daughters' high school were admitted to the Ivy League schools to which they had applied. "I was floored—these were some of the most impressive kids I have ever met at one of the most impressive schools in the state, and they still didn't get in," Tyler states.

As a result, she and her husband sought expert guidance for Sophie. In the fall of her sophomore year, she began working with Command Education to build an impressive applicant profile that would stand out to the hyper-selective schools on her list. After taking AP Biology and becoming involved with a botany club at her school, she developed an interest in holistic medicine. Sophie worked with Senior Mentor Wafa Muflahi to develop a passion project that brought awareness to holistic medicinal solutions through a podcast, in which she interviewed doctors, health experts, nutritionists, and botanists about natural approaches to healing. With Muflahi's support, Sophie also applied and was accepted to Emory University's Summer Scholars Research Program. This winter, she submitted an application for Brown University's PLME program that she was truly proud of.

The statistics prove that Command Education's singular approach works—in the Class of 2027 cycle, 100% of Command Education students who applied early to Harvard University were accepted, and over the last five years, 94% of students have been accepted to one of their top three schools. Given the firm's highly personalized process and staggering results, parents are willing to pay top dollar for Command Education's mentoring services—and many claim it is one of the best investments they've ever made.

"The college application process was so much more stressful than we ever anticipated—we had barely begun before my husband, daughter, and I were at each other's throats," says Highland Park parent Carolyn James. "Command Education has helped my son achieve his dream of getting into Cornell—and saved my marriage in the process!"

MARTY AND KELLY TURCO SHOOT FOR THE STARS
WITH THE 24TH ANNUAL ST. PHILIP'S LUNCHEON (STPHILIPS1600.ORG).

BY JANE HUMPHREY

How long have you been involved with St. Philip's?

Since we first walked into the doors at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave in the spring of 2019. The Dallas Stars Foundation wanted to partner with an incredible organization to complete our Legacy Project per the Winter Classic. We knew how special this place was within 10 minutes of being on campus. We heard from the headmaster and executive director, Dr. Flowers; we met with the faculty and enjoyed listening to the young students reciting the creed.

How special is it for you and your wife, Kelly, to chair the annual Destiny Award Luncheon together on Friday, March 8?

We haven't done anything like this before. We were so humbled by the request and honored to push this event to new heights. We are so excited to invigorate our circles, showcasing the beacon of prosperity and success of St. Philip's.

As you reflect on St. Philip's, what about their incredible work and efforts stick with you?

We are in awe of the mission to have their young, impressionable students focus on their intellectual, spiritual, and emotional growth. Their bright future puts our community in the best position possible for the next generations. Sports are huge there, which we love, and Aunt Beatie's food pantry feeds those in the community, displaying another fantastic layer of class by St Philip's.

What can guests expect from this year's Destiny Luncheon?

LL COOL J sharing his story will be epic, and we will hear from some of the city's finest leaders. Our personal favorite will be honoring our dear friends Lyn and John Muse for all the dedication and commitment their family does for those in need in the city of Dallas.
