

IN MARKET

Monaco Is World's Most Expensive Market; Bentley-Branded Residences Show Off Interiors

Apr 14, 2022 | By: Ameena Walker

The west unit pool and terrace at the Bentley Residences Miami in Miami, Florida. (Photo Credit: Bentley Residences Miami)

Bentley Residences Miami Gives Glimpses of Forthcoming Homes

The sales gallery for Miami's forthcoming Bentley Residences Miami has opened, giving prospective buyers a glimpse of what the building's 216 residences will offer. Each residence within the 70-story building will have balconies with a swimming pool, as well as unobstructed views through floor-to-ceiling glass windows. Each residence also comes with in-unit parking, which new renderings give a first enticing glimpse at.

Dezer Development and Sieger Suarez Architects are employing natural materials and hand-crafted Italian furniture from the Bentley Home collection, inspired by various models of the brand's cars, of course.

“The concept of indoor-outdoor living was really important to Bentley, whose customers enjoy the feeling of being out on the open road, just as much as being cocooned within the comfort of their car cabins,” said Brett Boydell, Bentley Head of Design Collaborations.

Private and communal amenities will include a cinema, game room, wellness center and spa, whisky bar, cigar lounge, and restaurant.