Bentley set to take luxury living to new heights.

If you're fortunate enough to benefit from a valet parking attendant or private parking spot at your residence, you may want to consider an upgrade.

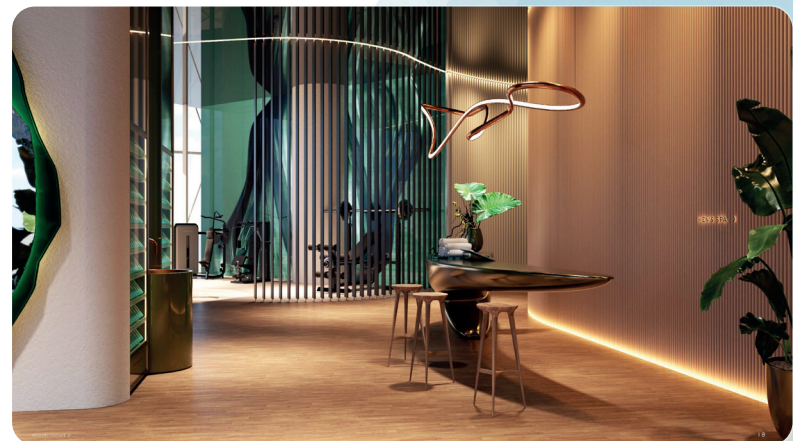

Bentley have taken lifts to a new level, unveiling their new residences in Miami which boast the 'dezervator' vehicle elevators and garages, accommodating up to four cars per apartment.

Residents will travel directly up to their apartments inside their cars using the elevators, named after Bentley's partner Dezer Development. Riding the Dezervator whilst seated in your car is a unique, unparalleled experience—with the lower floors of the elevator shaft enclosed by glass offering a full panoramic view of the communal areas of the building.

Residents will be able to ride all the way up to the top of the 749ft building, with each elevator featuring a hydraulic system which pinches a car by its tyres to pull it on top of a robotic shuttle system. This in turn transports it up or down to the correct storey.

In-unit garages and space for EV charging points for up to four cars per apartment will be included.

Apartments come complete with balcony swimming pools, cinema, games room, a wellness centre and spa, a whisky bar, cigar lounge and restaurant.

The building is set to be complete in 2026, with a virtual reality tour giving prospective buyers around the globe a chance to take a look around. The development will span 61-storeys, offering bay and ocean views from each exquisitely finished property.

For in-person visits, the sales gallery is now open in Sunny Isles Beach, Miami.
