indoor pool advantage

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

2 0 4 5 L O S T D A U P H I N R O A D | D E P E R E

Q: Is the pool expensive to maintain?

A: With no leaves blowing in and no direct sunlight to burn off chemicals, it didn't take much to keep the chemicals in balance. Our chemical costs are between $15 and $20 per month. Because it is open year-round, there are no costs to open or close the pool.

Q: Is it expensive to heat?

A: It does not cost much to keep the pool heated. With the pool covered and the room climate-controlled, maintaining the temperature is very easy. We keep the pool at 75 degrees and increase the air and water temperatures during use. Our average monthly full-home bill from WPS is $357, comparable to the bill for homes without a pool.

Q: How much work is the weekly upkeep?

A: Regular maintenance is about 15 minutes every 1-2 weeks. During this maintenance, I check the chemical levels, brush the steps and tile sides of the pool, and then let the robot handle the rest. And since it is indoors, there is no skimming of leaves, no twigs, and no bugs! The water chemistry stays stable, and the main filter element only needs to be cleaned once per year, which takes about 30-45 minutes.

Q: Won't the house smell like chlorine?

A: For multiple reasons, we don't smell chlorine in the rest of the house:

- 1) The pool uses bromine, which is low-order and easier on your skin.
- 2) The walls are concrete, the room is well sealed, and the room has its own dedicated heating and ventilation system designed to keep the air fresh and separate from the rest of the house.
- 3) Most importantly, that "pool smell" is actually caused by a buildup of spent chlorine (or bromine in this case), which only occurs when the bromine is working on contaminants or the pool isn't properly balanced. With the lack of sunlight and outdoor foreign matter getting into the pool, there is very little spent bromine created, thus a low odor!

Q: Does it make the house humid?

A: No. Keeping the pool covered when not in use minimizes the moisture, and a basic dehumidifier is enough to keep the room dry. When swimming, running the exhaust fan will rid most of the moisture until the pool is covered again. With its dedicated heating system, concrete walls, and sealed doors and windows, the swimming room's moisture doesn't reach other parts of the home when the pool is in use.

Q: What about safety for children and pets?

A: It is actually very safe! The lockable door can be used to limit access. When our kids were teens, we added a wireless camera system so we could monitor their swimming while we made dinner, etc. Because the pool is within the home, we've never had unknown or unexpected neighbors or wildlife in the pool!
