Sonja Huter is an award-winning luxury property sales specialist with Berkshire Hathaway HomeServices California Properties. She's been in the business for 20 years where she focuses on the exclusive San Diego coastal communities of Rancho Santa Fe, Del Mar, La Jolla and beyond. "I'm a high achiever who works well with others and solves problems with ease and clarity," she says. "The best part of my job is the everyday relationships I cultivate with my clients to help them achieve their real estate goals."

Ranked in the top 1.5% of realtors nationwide and top 1% worldwide within Berkshire Hathaway's global network, Huter assists her clients in reaching their real estate goals through her fierce negotiation skills, strong work ethic and attention to detail. She's represented sellers in transactions at all price points, including upwards of $10 million. Named a Top Real Estate Producer by the San Diego Business Journal, Huter's unwavering professionalism combined with her commitment to success has earned her clients' trust, as well as their referrals. She always conducts her business with confidence and integrity in an effort to get the best deal for her clients.

When looking at the future of San Diego's real estate industry, Huter is full of optimism. "There are always good opportunities," she says, "especially when you're working with an experienced real estate agent who will look out for your best interest." A wife and mother of two teenage boys, her commitment to real estate and her clients is matched by her love of family and spending quality time with them.
